

Introduction to Research Methods

BILC Steering Committee

Mary Jo DiBiase

Associate director

Yale University Center for Language Study

May 10, 2021

Aim of the workshop:

- to familiarize participants with basic principles of research design.
- to identify the differences between qualitative and quantitative research methods;
- to develop a research question and align it with a research method;
- to identify appropriate data collection and analysis methods.

Workshop agenda

(Three hours via Zoom)

Introductions and instructions on zoom

What is research and what are research methods?

Going from hunches to setting up a research design

Finding a way: alignment between RQ, data collection

Finding MY way

Analyzing data

Wrap up and Qs and As

Workshop dates and participants

4 December 2020: 12 participants

12 February 2021: 13 participants

9 April 2021: 13 participants

38 participants from 23 nations

- Azerbaijan
- Austria
- Bulgaria
- Canada
- Croatia
- Czech Republic
- Estonia
- Finland
- France
- Italy
- Jordan
- Latvia
- Lithuania
- Mongolia
- Norway
- Poland
- Slovakia
- Slovenia
- Spain
- Sweden
- Ukraine
- USA
- Uzbekistan

CERTIFICATE

This is to certify that

XXX YYY

has successfully completed

Bureau for International Language Coordination online workshop

INTRODUCTION TO RESEARCH METHODS

The aims of the workshop were to:

- familiarize participants with the basic principles of research design;
- enable participants to identify the differences between qualitative and quantitative research methods, develop a research question and align it with a research method;
- enable participants to identify some appropriate data collection and analysis methods.

Facilitator:

Mary Jo DiBiase-Lubrano

Yale University, USA

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Mary Jo DiBiase-Lubrano', written in a cursive style.

Participants' Motivations

- Programmatic evaluations
- Professional development
- Student outcomes analysis
 - Networking

Unsolicited Feedback

Thank you for conducting the Introduction to Research Methods Workshop. The very concept of research methods always scared me off, but you made it digestible and even yummy!

Thank you !