DESCRIPTION: The presentation explores the developmental stages of terminology management within the Slovenian Armed Forces, with a particular focus on achieving the desired end state. It illuminate the various approaches employed in terminology management throughout its evolution. Central to the presentation is the examination of how the work process has evolved over time and the key stakeholders involved in this evolution. The presentation also explores advantages and disadvantages of these approaches, accompanied by specific examples of terminological work. Finally, the presentation concludes by discussing the tools utilized for terminology management and the challenges associated with them.